

A Every case of persistent duodenal obstruction (n=12)

B Rate by age stratum and index approach

The excess after laparoscopy is confined to neonates, where the two arms are of comparable size. No open-related child had this outcome in any stratum, so no odds ratio is estimable; 85% of children aged ≥ 1 year underwent laparoscopy, so that stratum carries little information about approach.